POPE BENEDICT XV.
Creator of the Diocese Castrensis, November 24, 1917

FOREWORD

January 15, 1924.

This register of the Catholic Chaplains, Army and Navy, during the World War, has been compiled for the simple purpose of historical record. No printed word could possibly tell the story of devoted service and heroic sacrifice that distinguished our Catholic Chaplains on land and sea, in field and camp, in hospital and trench. The Chaplains also displayed a remarkably happy combination of priestly dignity and zeal with soldierly adjustment to military requirements during time of war.

As Chaplain Bishop I take this occasion to express my grateful appreciation in Christ for the invaluable assistance I received from the vicars-general, the chancellor and the secretaries of the Diocese Castrensis. I shall always cherish, with similar sentiments, the reverence and obedience given by the chaplains themselves—as noble, brave and spiritual a body of priests as ever ascended the Altar of God.

Nor should I fail to say here that the Diocese Castrensis must ever remain indebted to the Knights of Columbus for financial aid that was absolutely indispensable in administering the work and providing volunteer chaplains for posts not covered by Commissioned Chaplains.

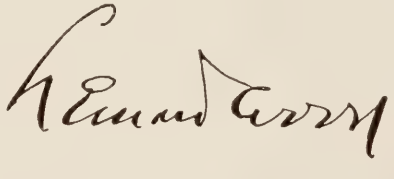
To my brethren of the Hierarchy I am profoundly obligated for their co-operation and help—which made possible the glorious and imperishable record of service coldly recorded in this volume.

Patrick J. Hayes
Chaplain Bishop

MANSION HOUSE
BAGUIO, P. I.

April 13, 1923.

Your chaplains rendered excellent service both at home and abroad, in garrison and in the field, not only during the World War, but in the Indian wars, in the Spanish war, and along the Border. They have come under my command and observation in many fields of activity. Their services have not been limited to the ministrations of religion, but they have been active in protecting the moral and physical welfare of the men. Like all our chaplains, they were loyal Americans. They have appealed to me by their works. Earnest representatives of their church, they have been equally earnest and devoted to the interests of the men who came under their care. They have stood for discipline, respect for authority, law and order, clean living, and faith in God and His wisdom.



UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD
WASHINGTON, D. C.

May 16, 1923.

It gives me very great pleasure to take the opportunity here afforded me, to give public testimony to the very high degree of spirituality, efficiency, and devotion to duty which always has characterized the priests who have been chosen to represent Holy Mother Church in the Chaplain Corps of the Navy. They have been and are a credit to the Church and to the Service, and besides, have earned the eternal gratitude of countless souls to whom they have been, in reality, spiritual fathers and guides.

Most particularly have they stood out in the great World War, under the leadership of His Grace, Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, the Chaplain Bishop. With the number of Catholic Chaplains increased correspondingly to the personnel of the Navy, they kept the same high standard. By their self-sacrifice and courage in the face of dangers and hardships, they proved invaluable in keeping up the morale of the officers and men of the Navy.

CATHOLIC CHAPLAINS
ARMY AND NAVY

ORDINARIATE
NEW YORK CITY

Feb. 1, 1924.

Most Rev. Patrick J. Hayes, D.D.,
Chaplain Bishop,
New York City.

My dear Archbishop:

Herewith is a compilation of the records of the Catholic Chaplains in the World War which I have gathered and prepared for publication at your direction.

Some of the records are not as full as others owing to the difficulty of getting in touch with some of the priests who have been separated from military service since the cessation of hostilities. All the records, however, have been verified and contain the salient facts of each Chaplain's career.

In preparing this data, I have avoided all attempts at rhetoric and have tried to give only the facts, to conform to your desire that the volume should be historical and not narrative.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

George J. Waring.

Vicar-General.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

Early Wars

At the time of the Revolutionary War, there were no regular Catholic Chaplains in the service. However, the units that came from abroad to help the cause of the Colonies, brought their own Catholic Chaplains with them, to the number of about one hundred priests. It is co-incident that the first Catholic Church, in New York, St. Peters', was founded by a Chaplain of the Revolutionary War, Rev. Charles Whelan, O.M.Cap.

The same condition, as regards Catholic Chaplains, held in the War of 1812, and even in the early part of the Mexican War, for Congress had made no provisions for Catholic Chaplains. In 1846, however, President Polk invited Bishops Hughes, of New York, Portier, of Mobile, and Kenrick, of St. Louis, to a meeting and suggested that they select two priests for Chaplaincies. These were selected by the Bishops and appointed by the President.

In the Civil War, there were about one hundred priests in the field, and although most of these were volunteers, they served with recognized state or volunteer organizations and were regularly commissioned as Chaplains. Among the prominent Chaplains in the Civil War were the late Archbishop Ireland, Bishop Lawrence McMahon and Bishop Bernard McQuaid, of Rochester.

1898-1917

During the Spanish-American War of 1898, there were very few Chaplains in the service holding commissioned rank. Little provision was made for Chaplains as the regular establishment (Army and Navy) carried only a small number. Of these, the Catholic Church had a total of about twelve.

A few of the National Guard Regiments which entered the Federal service at the time, had their official Catholic Chaplains. Over and above these, some of the larger Dioceses sent priests to follow the troops from their own states, and these priests served in a civilian capacity at various mobilization camps throughout the country.

The entire National Guard of the country was mobilized by Federal order, to the Mexican Border, in 1916, and these troops did a tour of duty there, extending from a few months to a year. At that time there were only nine Catholic priests identified with the National Guard in the United States, and when our Catholic young men assembled along the Rio Grande, they found themselves practically without the administrations of priests.

The few priests in the National Guard, together with two or three Regular Army Chaplains, on duty along the Border, were unable to cope with the situation. The Bishops along the Border, although they had very few clergy covering immense tracts of territory, lent whatever assistance they could in looking after the spiritual welfare of the American men.

Conditions Early in the World War

When the United States entered the World War on April 6, 1917, the whole of the Regular Army and National Guard was immediately mobilized. There were then sixteen priests in the Regular Army, and these augmented by the nine National Guard Chaplains gave a total of twenty-five priests to look after the Catholic soldiers scattered through some 300,000 troops.

In the summer of 1917, the various camps and cantonments were under way and by September of the same year, additional troops were called to the colors by means of the selective draft. The men chosen in the first draft were centered in sixteen cantonments throughout the country. In the meantime, the voluntary enlistments in the Army and Navy had been very heavy.

Realizing that the great bulk of the new big Army was made up of men who had never been away from their homes and religious environments, the Government issued a hurry call for Chaplains of all denominations. Catholic priests in many of the larger Dioceses were quick to respond to the call.

This condition prevailed for several months. Officers and men in the various camps, particularly in the Southern States, were clamoring for priests. Local Bishops sent in call after call to Bishops in the larger centers asking that priests be sent to look after the Catholic boys in these camps.

Quota of Catholic Chaplains

The quota of Catholic Chaplains allowed before the war was 24%, but after a conference in Washington, at which religious statistics, gathered from non-Catholic sources, were presented, the Catholic quota was raised to 37.8%. This quota continued in effect until 1920, when it was reduced to 25% in the Army. The Catholic Chaplains in the Navy never had a quota greater than 25%.

The Government continued to ask for more Chaplains as the size of the forces increased, with the result that on the day the Armistice was signed, November 11, 1918, there were 1,023 Chaplains in active service, either with the Army, Navy or K. of C., and 500 approved applicants who would have been commissioned, January 1, 1919.

Military and Naval regulations had to be altered several times in order to provide for the commissioning of additional priests. For instance, in the early days of the war, the age limit for priests applying for commission in the Army, was 40 years, and in the Navy 31½ years. These limits were raised respectively to 45 and 40 years.

With the rapid growth of the number of priests in the service, considerable confusion arose. Here was a vast Diocese, in number of priests, laymen and territory, with no regularly constituted head. The Chaplains had to turn some place for advice and instructions.

They frequently were in other Dioceses than their own and were at a loss to know whether to turn to their own Bishops or to the Bishop in whose Diocese they were serving.

Diocese Castrensis Created

The late Holy Father, Pope Benedict XV, realizing the gravity of the situation, on November 24, 1917, appointed the first Episcopus Castrensis in the United States, Most Rev. Patrick J. Hayes, D.D., then Auxiliary Bishop, and now Archbishop of New York.

The news of the appointment of Bishop Hayes gave general satisfaction throughout the country. The Bishops were elated because they felt that the confusion would end. The Chaplains were happy in the realization that they had a capable and worthy superior to turn to for comfort and advice. The men in the service were pleased, for they knew they would not be left without priests.

Bishop Hayes started his work of organization immediately upon his appointment. He divided his gigantic Diocese into five vicariates, four in the United States, and one overseas. He appointed Vicars-General over these and had them establish offices. His other officials were a Chancellor and a Secretary, stationed in New York, and an Executive Secretary, stationed in Washington, D. C.

After the work of organization was completed and the machinery of the vast new Diocese working smoothly, the Chaplain Bishop made a visitation to the various Army and Navy posts in the United States. He was about to visit the Overseas Vicariate, but was prevented by the final illness and death of Cardinal Farley. However, he sent his Chancellor to represent him, on a visit to the overseas' camps, and at Rome.

Work of the Diocese in War and Since

The great work accomplished by the Diocese Castrensis can best be judged, when it is understood how vast a territory it covered. Its territory, extending through five Vicariates, included the United States, the Philippines, the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska, Panama, Porto Rico, Ireland, England, France, Italy, Belgium, Germany and Russia.

In fine, its territory embraced land and sea, wherever there were Catholic Chaplains, Catholic fighting men, or Catholic physicians, or nurses. And its territory was not its only stupendous feature. Its Catholic population numbered about a million and its priests were more than one thousand strong.

During the war and in the period of reconstruction immediately following the signing of the Armistice, thousands of soldiers, or sailors, or members of their families, were baptized. Thousands more were married. Numberless dispensations were sought.

All these matters were reported to the Ordinariate in New York, through the various Vicariates, or directly, for permanent record. Besides these, countless are the numbers of Confessions and Communions noted in the monthly reports of the Chaplains sent to the Ordinariate.

The Diocese Castrensis continues to operate. With one exception of the Overseas' Vicariate, all the Vicariates are still functioning, and the overseas' work is being carried on at the Ordinariate, 110 East 12th Street, New York City. The other Vicariates are situated in Chicago, New Orleans, and San Francisco.

Monthly reports from 96 priests who still remain in the service, are received at the Ordinariate. Besides these, there are about 200 priests in the Officers' Reserve Corps of the Army and in National Guard organizations throughout the country.

What each individual of the Diocese Castrensis, the Chaplain Bishop, the Vicars, the Chancellor, the Secretaries and the Chaplains did in the war, what they had done before it, and what they have been doing since, is told in the individual records, which are given later.

MOST REV. PATRICK J. HAYES, D.D.
Archbishop of New York, Chaplain Bishop, Army and Navy

Most Rev. Patrick J. Hayes, D.D.

Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, Fifth Archbishop of New York, has the honor not only of being the first native son to wear the Pallium of the See of New York, but is also distinguished by his appointment as the first Chaplain Bishop for Catholic Army and Navy Chaplains in the United States.

Archbishop Hayes was born on November 20, 1867, in St. Andrew's Parish, near City Hall, New York City, the son of Daniel and Mary Gleason Hayes. He received his elementary education in Transfiguration Parochial School. He then went to De La Salle Institute and later to Manhattan College, where he was graduated in 1888.

He received his theological training at St. Joseph's Seminary, Troy, N. Y., and was ordained September 8, 1892, some months ahead of his class, having won a scholarship to the Catholic University, Washington, D. C.

Upon completion of his course at the Catholic University, the then Father Hayes was appointed to St. Gabriel's Church, New York City, as Assistant to the late Cardinal, then Mgr. Farley. He served Bishop and afterwards Archbishop Farley for a time as Secretary and in 1903 was appointed Chancellor of the Archdiocese of New York.

During the same year, when Cardinal Farley established the Cathedral College, he appointed Mgr. Hayes its first president. Mgr. Hayes continued to hold both offices until he was appointed, by Pope Pius X, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, July 3, 1914.

He was consecrated Titular Bishop of Tagaste, October 28, 1914, by the late Cardinal Farley, in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Bishop Hayes had the distinction of being one of the last of the Bishops appointed for the United States by Pope Pius X and one of the first preconized by Pope Benedict XV.

In 1915 Bishop Hayes was made Irremovable Rector of St. Stephen's Church, New York City, and it was at this Rectory that the military Ordinariate was established and remained until June, 1923, when it was removed to St. Ann's, New York City. He was appointed Bishop Ordinary of the United States Army and Navy Chaplains by the Holy See on November 24, 1917, by Pope Benedict XV.

The appointment of Bishop Hayes as Chaplain Bishop was acclaimed in Army and Navy as well as in ecclesiastical circles. The new Bishop, although unaccustomed to military affairs, lost no time in starting the machinery going to form a real solid organization.

Although Bishop Hayes realized the magnitude of the burden that had been placed on his shoulders, he did not flinch, but hurried to his task. He knew how vast the work would be, for he was not unaware that he had become the spiritual father of a Diocese, which extended from Florida to Alaska and from Maine to California, in this country.

But that was not the only extent of his new territory, for it took in all the insular possessions of the United States, every foreign nation in which American soldiers were stationed and every sea on which American seamen sailed.

With the aid of five vicars, a chancellor, and two secretaries, the Bishop soon had the machinery working so smoothly, that reports were coming in to the Ordinariate from all over the world. Nor did this stop with the cessation of hostilities. In fact, reports are still received monthly at the Ordinariate.

Bishop Hayes was made Archbishop of New York on March 10, 1919. Naturally after his promotion to that office, he had to devote most of his time to the Great See of New York. The Archbishop, however, continues as the Bishop Ordinary, and in spite of the great responsibilities and duties which, as Archbishop of New York, are his, he still devotes no small part of his time and energies to the work of the Army and Navy Diocese.

Vattman, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Edward J. (Cleveland)

Born September 11, 1840, Prussia. Was appointed a post chaplain December 6, 1890, and was retired from active service on September 11, 1904. He died September 29, 1919, at Wilmette, Ill., and was interred at Fort Sheridan, Ill., October 3, 1919. During the World War he several times asked to be placed on active service and when his request was not approved, he rendered voluntary service in the hospital at Fort Sheridan, Ill. Among recent papers in his file are splendid letters from Mr. Woodrow Wilson, Secretary Baker and Colonel Ryan who commanded at Fort Sheridan.

Rev. Edward Walsh (Hartford)

Born in Bridgeport, Conn., June 6, 1881. Educated at Sacred Heart School, Bridgeport, Conn. Graduated from La Salette College; attended the Niagara University, and American College, Louvain, Belgium, 1908. Ordained in St. Joseph's Cathedral May 9, 1908. Served at St. James' Church, So. Manchester, Sacred Heart Church, Waterbury, Immaculate Conception Church, New Hartford, and Holy Angels' Church, South Meriden. Left here to become a Chaplain in the U. S. Army. Served at Camp Sheridan with the 920th Engineers, 9th Regiment. After his discharge from the Army he was assigned as assistant to St. Mary's Church, New London. After three months was made pastor of St. Thomas' Church, Voluntown. Died November 27, 1919.

The following is a list of priests whose applications had been received by the Chaplain Bishop, and who were ready for appointment at the time the Armistice was signed, and who were prevented from getting in actual service by the cessation of hostilities:

Catholic Chaplains in Service of United States

April 1917 to May 1922

APPENDIX

CATHOLIC CHAPLAINS

ORDINARIATE
NEW YORK

April 15, 1918.

My dearly beloved Chaplain in Christ:

Since my appointment as Ordinarius Castrensis last November by the Holy See, constant has been my desire to see and speak with each chaplain personally that I might know mine and mine might know me. Such a realization, indeed, has not been possible up to the present, but I hope that, in due course of time, it will happily eventuate.

If I have not written formally hitherto—and I feel somewhat remiss in this matter—it was because I was daily expecting from Rome an official instruction, which would definitely fix my jurisdiction with its canonical relation to the Hierarchy, to the chaplains and to the faithful in both arms of the United States service. On March 12th I was fortunate enough to receive through the Apostolic Delegation the promised document from the S. Consistorial Congregation, an excerpt of which I enclose for your information and guidance.

You will observe, my beloved son, that the Vicar of Christ has deigned to establish between us a corporate and spiritual relationship, which imposes mutual duties and obligations.

In the first place, let me beg of you to bear in mind that both of us, bishop and priest, are an integral and necessary part of a wartime jurisdiction—it would hardly do to call it a diocese —with the flock ever on the brink of eternity, scattered over land and sea, amid the perils of the battlefront, perils of the fortressed clouds, and perils of the garrisoned deep. Hardly ever before, in the history of the Church, have shepherds been called upon to follow and care for the fold of Christ under more dangerous and heroic circumstances.

May I say for myself that all that I am by office and authority, and all that I may have of health, time and energy are pledged herewith to our devoted chaplains, and to our brave soldiers and sailors with the Colors. I am ready, at all times, to spend myself and be spent that the exalted dignity of the priesthood, now splendidly represented in Army and Navy, may be still more glorified by pastoral service, and not suffer, in the slightest, if I can prevent it, from any person unworthy or by any act unholy. I shall be ever most solicitous that the already inspiring record of apostolic labor nobly and heroically done by our chaplain body may shine with greater lustre unto the honor of God, the consolation of the Church and the salvation of souls.

The reverence and obedience you have ever shown and given to your own beloved Ordinary at home will be likewise now due to me, even more so—I venture to say—because of war's grim and ugly conditions that, tending not to cultivate the spiritual in man, may even shatter priestly ideals in the shepherd himself. When peaceful days shall fall again on our land, and you pass from my jurisdiction back to your own diocese or community, may you render once more, in all honor, to your own ecclesiastical superior a reverence and obedience thrice sanctified and thrice blessed because many times purified through war's ordeals that perhaps have tried your very soul.

May I ask also that you serve and obey as you would my very self the Very Rev. Vicars-General, four in number, whom

I have chosen, through the gracious courtesy of their respective Archbishops, to help me in this vast and stupendous undertaking. I feel that Divine Providence has singularly blessed our war mission in sending me these dignified, experienced and zealous pastors now making, in my name, a canonical visitation of military and naval chaplains.

A war chaplain must be a man of marked spiritual life both for the efficiency of his ministry and for the safety of his own soul. If the course of modern warfare demands military leaders to be almost supermen from the viewpoint of genius, endurance and courage, surely priests who serve among such men as ministers of Christ and guides of souls should be of a very superior type with regard to strength and spirituality of character. The Chaplain Corps should be so impressively and supernaturally clean-cut in its alignment before the public eye that no place be given in its body, for a moment, to a weakling, moral or spiritual.

Your acceptance of service as an army or naval chaplain presupposes that you have been chosen by the Church and authorized by the Government because you possess the qualities necessary for this difficult responsibility. If a mistake has been made in selecting one for a chaplaincy, far better for himself, for the Church, for the nation, that he return to the ministry in fields other than the military. It is not every man that can become a real soldier; nor is it every priest that will prove a useful and successful war chaplain.

An overt indiscretion, a serious blunder, any manifestation of unmanly and ungenerous ideals of personal conduct on the part of a chaplain will irrevocably end his usefulness in military circles. Neither apology nor explanation can remedy the sad plight of the ostracism in which a chaplain may have placed himself. Stern military life, in war days, knows no pardon. Nor would it be reasonable to expect ecclesiastical authority to ignore and forbear from dealing emphatically with a breach of discipline.

The fair repute of the Church and the good of religion are in the keeping of the chaplain as a very precious and sacred trust. The Church in Army and Navy has really but one way of expressing her life, her doctrine, her practise; and that is through the chaplain, who, without the impressive symbolism of temple, altar, chant and liturgy, is, in a sense, the solitary symbol of the Church in camp and on battleship. Let not then a priest of the Most High, a minister of Christ, a dispenser of the mysteries of God, be a sign contradicting himself and a stumbling block in the way of eternal salvation unto the brethren in arms.

This message I send you may have a note of solemn admonition that hardly seems called for, when one considers our chaplains either collectively or individually. I must confess, and gladly do so, to the gratifying sense of my highest appreciation of the personnel of the Chaplain Corps. Our candidates for chaplains have impressed most favorably the representatives of the Federal authorities. I myself am convinced that the Hierarchy and the superiors of religious orders have been choosing, among their very best, priests to serve as chaplains at this critical hour of our national history.

It is this very blessed and assuring beginning that urges me, with all the appealing power of my soul, to beg our chaplains not to waste or miss their wonderful opportunity for the Church in this terrible adventure of the world's greatest war.

Our chaplains are receiving their commissions under most encouraging auspices. The Federal Government sincerely desires the Catholic priest in the service. Army and Navy officers, with rare exceptions, irrespective of their religious belief, plead for and welcome the Catholic chaplain. The enlisted men are trooping with intense faith to the Tribunal of Penance and to the Altar of the Lord. Almost everywhere and nearly by everybody the highest possible value has been set upon the ministry of the Catholic chaplain.

Nothing but failure, however, will mark the public ministry of a chaplain if he be wanting in solid personal piety. All the prayers of venerable bishops and priests, of holy men and women, of pious maidens and little children, now ascending hourly to our Heavenly Father for our chaplains, will not avail much if our war shepherds faint by the wayside of solemn duty by reason of spiritual weakness. "I can do all things in him who strengthened me."—Philip IV., 13°. The source of priestly strength and power is Christ Himself: per Ipsum, cum Ipso, et in Ipso. Only by prayer, meditation, frequent confession, daily Mass, and saintly living will Christ abide with His priest. Entrance into military service does not dispense a priest from these elementary fundamentals of the spiritual life. On the contrary, a chaplain, left so much to himself and removed from the normal helps at home, needs to cling to and to cherish these sacerdotal practises more than ever before in his life.

I commend you, my beloved son, now and always, to the protection of the Angels and Saints of Heaven and to the motherly care and love of Mary Immaculate, Star of the Sea. I pray each day that the Lord Himself may be to you "a help in starting, a comfort by the way, a shadow from the heat, a covering from the rain and cold, a chariot in weariness, a refuge in trouble, a staff in slippery paths, a haven in shipwreck, and that under His guidance you may successfully reach your journey's end, and afterwards return in safety to your home."

Praying for you an abundance of every Easter grace and blessing, I am,

Faithfully in Christ,

✠ PATRICK J. HAYES,

Bishop of Tagaste,

Ordinarius Castrensis.

Ex Litteris S. Cong. Consistorialis Illmo ac Revmo Dmno Patricio Joseph Hayes, Episcopo Tagastensi, Ordinario Castrensi quoad cappellanos castrenses quaedam excerpta:—

"Omnes clerici, sive qui cappellani munere funguntur, sive qui alia qualibet de causa in exercitibus Statuum fœderatorum Americæ inveniuntur, a tua pendent auctoritate, qua proprius eorum Ordinarius, usque dum in exercitibus ipsi permaneant, Tibique omnes subesse debent, Tibique parere in cunctis, quæ ad eorum regimen spirituale, ad sacrorum exercitium, ad translationem ab uno in aliud ministerium vel locum spectant, et Tu decreveris, servatis canonicis regulis, pro animarum bono statuere." * *

"Si forte contingat, ut aliquis ex his clericis, quilibet sit, ita inordinate se gerat, ut amoveri ab officio debeat, aut etiam a divinis suspendi, plena ad hoc patet Tibi potestats, servatis tamen semper canonicis regulis, et collatis, si opus sit, cum militari auctoritate consiliis."

"Officii tui erit præter reliqua quæ ad regimen, ædificationem et correctionem clericorum pertinent, adnotationem sumere et tenere de vita et moribus singulorum sacerdotum et seminarii alumnorum, si qui in copiis militaribus adsint, ut, sive modo, sive post belli finem, opportuna testimonia de singulis possis proprio respectivo Ordinario proferre."

"Quod si gravi quadam correptione vel pœna aliquem clericum plectere debeas, non omittas de hac re ejusdem Ordinarium statim edocere."

"Pro proponendis seu deputandis sacerdotibus in officio cappellani, ad Te spectat cum militari auctoritate agere." * *

"Cum insuper de salute tot catholicorum laicorum, qui in memoratis exercitibus militant, cura Tibi sit, non omittes, data opportunitate, sive per Te, sive per cappellanos, eos adhortari, ut longe sint a peccatis, condignis moribus vivant, et ad sacramenta accedant, nedum in vitæ periculis, sed et sæpius quum possint."
